Hey, Rajdeep Das --

At Major League Hacking (MLH), we believe that hackers like you are changing the world. Every day we hear about another student who had a life changing experience and created something amazing at one of our events. If it weren't for this hacker community, we would have never founded Major League Hacking - I would have been practicing law and my co-founder, Jon, would have been teaching history. Go figure.

I wanted to personally thank you for participating in the MLH Pre-Fellowship program! There are a lot of other ways you could have spent this summer, but knowing that you decided to spend 4 weeks of it hacking with us and our community means so much. We sincerely hope you had fun contributing to your projects, made a friend or two, and learned something new along the way.

It is so inspiring to know that millions of developers around the world will be using the code you wrote this fall. You have made a huge impact on the global hacking community and we hope you are as proud of yourself as we are of you. To commemorate the experience, we wanted to send you this amazing swag!

Once again, thank you so much for being a member of our community and congratulations on being an MLH Pre-Fellowship alum. MLH exists to empower hackers like you, and our work would not be possible without your continued support.

Happy Hacking,

Swift
